Various unit classes will be available for investment from time to time offering investors access to real estate and or infrastructure investments.

The different unit classes may have different rights to income, capital and distributions and may carry different fees.

This information memorandum sets out the details of a potential investment in the Wallaroo Infrastructure Unit Class. Should you wish to receive information on the other unit classes of the ACIF Priority Fund please contact the Trustee or Investment Manager.

The Trustee has appointed the Investment Manager for the purposes of marketing the Fund to prospective Investors, completing due diligence on target investments and managing the investments of the Fund with a view to achieving returns for Investors. The Investment Manager brings extensive expertise to the management of the Fund.

2.2 Key Features of the Fund

The Fund offers Investors:

- i) an investment and a management team with a proven track record in financing, real estate investment management and funds management; and
- ii) an opportunity to invest in a high return/medium risk infrastructure project.

2.3 Structure of the Fund

The Fund structure is as follows (also see Section 5):

- i) The Fund is a unit trust established under, and governed by, Australian law.
- ii) The Wallaroo Infrastructure Unit Class will be operated as a closed-end unit class with an anticipated term of up to 7 years, which may be extended by the Trustee.

2.4 Investment Objective and Strategy

The Trustee is seeking to raise $35 million to acquire units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

Returns to Investors will be dependent on distributions of income and capital to holders of units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust. Returns to Investors are therefore dependent on the success of the investment in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

2.5 Investment Opportunity

By the ACIF Priority Fund investing in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust, Australia China Investment Fund Pty Ltd, as investment manager of the ACIF Priority Fund, aims to provide investors with the opportunity to participate indirectly in the development of the Wallaroo port and transhipment enterprise that will include the following initial assets:

- The Wallaroo Port Facility, strategically located in the Yorke Peninsula grain catchment area
- On port grain storage and handling facilities, including 32,000 tonnes of storage in four 8,000 tonne fumigable silo bin units; and
- Upcountry bunker storage with capacity to hold 260,000 tonnes of grain in close proximity to Wallaroo.

This investment has been targeted by the investment manager to provide investors in the Wallaroo Infrastructure Unit Class with an IRR in excess of 15% per annum.

3. Investment Strategy of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust

The information in this Section 3 has been extracted from the information memorandum in relation to the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust dated 10 May 2019. Any reference to Trustee in this section means the trustee of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust and any reference to trust means the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust. Further details in relation to the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust are available from that trust's information memorandum or the trustee of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

3.1 Wallaroo Port Operations

The investment strategy will focus on the development of the Port at Wallaroo for the bulk storage, handling and export of grain from the North, Mid North and Yorke Peninsula grain districts in South Australia. Project development is expected to be completed in November 2020 with the Wallaroo Port commencing grain export operations in the 2020/21 grain harvest season. T-Ports is targeting circa 500,000 tonnes per annum of throughput from grain growers in the Yorke Peninsula over the next five years. T-Ports will continue to develop relationships with grain growers in the North, Mid North and Yorke Peninsula grain districts over the investment holding period to secure additional regular grain throughput. Following the Project being fully financed, and the Port assets developed, the focus will turn to maximising operational revenue and efficiency.

3.2 Wallaroo Port Development Strategy

The tables below outline the anticipated capital sources and capital expenditure required for the Project's development (including Working Capital and contingencies). Investors should note that as the debt raising has not yet occurred, these capital sources may change as the Project development occurs.

Construction Sources of Cash (AUD M)

Capital Sources Table	$m
Senior debt	20.0
Subordinate debt	10.0
Equity	35.0
Total	65.0

Construction Uses of Cash (AUD M)

Construction Costs	$m
Land and Port Construction	12.9
Port Silo Storage and Equipment	18.2
Bunker Storage Area	10.2
EPCM & Contingencies	10.3
Establishment Fees + Costs	1.3
Operation Costs During Construction	1.7
T-Ports Development Charge	3.3
Management Fee	0.8
Interest During Construction	2.3
Financing Fees	2.8
DSRA: Initial Funding	1.1
Total	65.0

3.3 Capital Investment Required

A detailed schedule of equipment and anticipated costings associated with this additional infrastructure is provided on the previous page.

The ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust intends to commit this capital over the next 18 months, with the first years' development comprising the port/groyne development and all storage and handling equipment required to be operational utilising a silo system with 32,000 tonne capacity. Additionally, grain bunker storage facilities of 260,000 tonnes will be developed.

The Port will not be capacity constrained in its grain export activities as the infrastructure will be capable of exporting greater than 2m tonnes of grain per annum. The tables above break down the sources and uses of funds and assume that $35m is raised in equity under this IM. The precise use of these funds will depend on final commercial diligence of the revenue opportunity and associated capex and opex funding requirements.

The Trustee and T-Ports intend to implement the above development plans. However, there is no certainty that any development opportunities may eventuate, as any development will be subject to various factors, including:

- required consent or approval by the parties involved;
- available funding (which may require additional equity raising or debt funding);

- available resources;
- regulatory and planning approvals; and
- general economic conditions.

3.4 Construction and Operational Timeline

The table below provides a high-level indicative timeline for the Wallaroo Port (from equity closure to operations):

Item	Target Completion	Estimated Timing	Comment
Debt Capital Raise	May-20	12 months	Senior debt capital raise of circa $20m and subordinated debt capital raise of circa $10m. Subordinated debt will be raised alongside the equity raise and terms and covenants will be negotiated with our senior financier.
Equity Raise	May-20	12 months	Equity capital raise targeting $35m.
Post Regulatory Approvals	Oct-19	6 months	The key regulatory requirement is to obtain the Section 49 approval required to proceed with development. T-Ports anticipate that the regulatory approval process will be streamlined for the Wallaroo Port due to previous collaboration with the Department of Planning, Transport and Infrastructure (DPTI).
Port Construction	Oct-20	18 months	Wallaroo Port construction prior to operations, Construction will begin after finalisation of development approvals.
Grain Receival (Bunkers)	Oct-20	15 months	Receive first grain at upcountry bunker storage with capacity to hold 260,000 tonnes of grain in close proximity to Wallaroo.
Grain Export	Nov-20	18 months	Export first grain from Wallaroo Port.

Investors should note that the above timetable has been forecast on a range of assumptions, including that all equity and debt finance will be raised within 12 months, development approvals will be received within six months (in each case from May 2019) and that the construction timeline will be 12 months from the date of completion of the development approvals. Whilst the Trustee considers these assumptions on timelines to be reasonable, Investors should be aware that as the Project is a greenfields project, there is a risk that some or all of these assumptions prove to be incorrect or that the construction timetable is otherwise delayed. A delay in the overall construction and operations commencement timetable is a risk that investors should take into account, as such delays may affect overall returns for investors through, for example, increased cost of funds, construction and financing budget increases and delayed revenue streams (including the risk that the 2020/21 grain harvest season is missed as a result of such delays, resulting in delayed revenue and delayed distribution returns to Investors).

3.5 Exit strategy

The Trustee's current intention is to realise value for the Trust's assets within five to seven years after this Offer Close Date. Accordingly, within five to seven years after the Offer close, the Trustee and the Manager will consider options to realise value for investors through an exit event.

An exit is likely to occur in conjunction with the Lucky Bay Port assets and may involve: an initial public offer and listing; a potential sale to an institutional infrastructure fund, superannuation fund or similar entity; or a refinancing of equity through a capital raising and redemption offer.

The IDPIT (which owns T-Ports and the Lucky Bay Port) holds a market priced call option to purchase the Wallaroo Port from the Trust as well as rights of first and last refusal over the Wallaroo Port (and associated holding structures). Accordingly, there is a real likelihood that an exit of the Wallaroo investment will occur in conjunction with an exit by the IDPIT of its Lucky Bay assets. That exit may occur in less than the five year holding period noted above (but is not guaranteed).

The Trust cannot dispose of an interest in the Port or related assets without first notifying IDPIT. If IDPIT does not exercise its market priced call option within 12 months after that notice, the Trust has 12 months to sell on-market. However, IDPIT has a first and last right of refusal in relation to that sale process. The call option does not apply prior to the end of the first year of Port operations, unless being exercised in conjunction with a full sale of IDPIT's Assets to a third party.

4. Why Invest: Market Overview

The information in this Section 4 has been extracted from the Information Memorandum dated 10 May 2019 in relation to the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

4.1 Why Invest in Infrastructure?

Infrastructure assets provide fundamental services that generate productivity and facilitate economic growth. As an asset class, infrastructure encompasses a wide range of industries that are critical to Australia's social and economic well-being.¹

Infrastructure assets typically demonstrate the following characteristics:

- Long duration: Infrastructure assets typically have a lifespan greater than 30 years;²
- Barriers to Entry: Due to the high establishment costs, infrastructure often presents significant barriers to entry;³
- Low Operational Costs: The ongoing operational costs of infrastructure are typically low; and⁴
- Stable Demand: Infrastructure assets typically provide basic services, resulting in demand stability that is more resistant to business cycles.⁵

As a result of these characteristics, infrastructure assets present an attractive investment opportunity.

The inclusion of infrastructure assets in an investment portfolio provides a number of key benefits, including:

- Relatively low correlation of returns with traditional asset classes, thereby providing diversification benefits to an investor's portfolio;⁶
- An investment that has historically outperformed traditional assets classes such as equities and bonds;⁷
- Relatively low volatility of returns compared with traditional asset classes such as equities and bonds;⁸ and
- Relatively stable long-term yields, with the potential for capital growth.⁹

4.2 Why Invest in Port Infrastructure?

Port infrastructure is considered to be a “patronage asset”, otherwise known as a demand-based asset. The performance of a patronage asset is dependent on how much the service it provides is used: the more people that use the port, the better it performs.¹⁶

In the case of the ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust, the performance of the Port facilities will be closely linked to agricultural production in the Yorke Peninsula. As such, Port performance will be directly related to the underlying drivers of this production, such as weather, productivity, yields and input costs. For example, in years with exceptional agronomic conditions, it would be expected that grain growers would produce greater yields and hence need to export higher volumes of grain through the Wallaroo Port.

¹⁰ Sharpe Ratio is a measure of an asset's risk adjusted return. A Sharpe Ratio greater than 0.5 is desired.

The key characteristics of infrastructure as an asset class, and growing international trade, means port infrastructure presents an attractive investment opportunity. Port assets typically generate revenue streams through charging its users with a toll or port fee.

This toll incorporates intake, handling, transhipment and wharfage charges and it is generally quoted on a dollar per tonne ($/t) basis.¹⁷ Generally, the ongoing costs of port infrastructure assets incorporate port management fees (including operational labour costs) and maintenance costs. In the case of the ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust, T-Ports is able to build a port at a lower cost than traditional deep-water ports because of the transhipment technology, making the financial feasibility more attractive. Five of the world's top ten transhipment ports are also considered to be among the world's 10 busiest ports. By 2012, global transhipment ports had doubled the amount of all TEUs handled by ports.¹⁸ Furthermore, privately owned and operated ports tend to have significant commercial relationships with users which allows them to enhance efficiencies.¹⁹

4.2.1 Social Impact of Port Infrastructure

Globalisation and ongoing economic growth have supported the demand for port infrastructure. Global trade has steadily grown since the 1950s and, as nation states become more interdependent, international trade is expected to increase. Such growth is likely to occur irrespective of the recent imposition of trade barriers by the United States and, in retaliation, China.

It has been estimated that between 2019 – 2023 exports and imports are expected to grow at a faster rate than the anticipated GDP growth of 2.14% p.a. The IMF anticipates Australian export volumes will increase by 41% over this period (or 5.4% p.a.), whereas import volumes will increase at a relatively lower rate of 33.7% (or 4.7% p.a.).²⁰

Whilst port infrastructure is initially capital intensive, the assets have historically been associated with a wide range of positive economic impacts. Ports are often considered to be funnels to economic development, acting as a catalyst for specific sector development nearby or along supply chain corridors. Historically, port throughput has been positively related to local/domestic employment growth in port regions (the higher the throughput the more employment).²¹ This is because the labour used in the port usually comes from the local community. Studies have shown that for each direct case of port employment, three to four indirect jobs are created in the community.²²

Furthermore, privately owned ports usually have larger regional employment impacts than public ports.²³ It has been estimated that the Australian port sector employs approximately 35,000 people.²⁴

4.3 Why Invest in Australian Ports?

Australia is dependent on efficient port infrastructure for its trade with the rest of the world.²⁵ Over 90% of Australia's exports rely on sea transport, with Australian seagoing imports and exports contributing $400b to the Australian economy (or 25% of GDP).²⁶ Whilst Australia only contributes 1.3% of global trade by value, in 2017 we exported US $40b of agricultural products, making Australia the eighth largest agricultural product exporter in the world.²⁷ Significant growth in Australia's international and domestic trade is expected over the next ten years.²⁸ Furthermore, the Bureau of Infrastructure, Transport and Regional Economics is estimating that over the coming two decades, sea trade will double.²⁹

Domestic and international freight volumes have been growing rapidly. Total Australian seaborne trade has grown at an annual rate of 2.8%,³⁰ and Australian bulk cargo exports have increased 114% over the previous decade.³¹ Australia's growth in bulk cargo exports is directly related to the country's strong trade relationships with Asia. The Asian region represents 10 of Australia's top 12 export markets. As the Asian region continues to grow, and the demand for Australian commodities increases, this trend is expected to accelerate.³²

Efficient port infrastructure is expected to underscore the future growth of the Australian agricultural industry and help to take advantage of this growing trade with Asia.³³ The ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust is well placed to capitalise on this by innovating upon the traditional port model in South Australia. Australia's port infrastructure has not yet reached its potential in terms of efficiency.³⁴

Whilst growth in Australian freight volumes has been rapid, an increasing portion of this freight has been transported by road and rail, as opposed to sea. This has resulted in congestion and bottle-necks in Australian freight routes.³⁵

Furthermore, the Productivity Commission has estimated that average transport costs represent approximately 20% of producers' costs.³⁶ Ports generate significant benefits to the Australian economy through assisting in the provision of essential services that support the sustainability and growth of all economic sectors. In order to improve efficiencies, reduce costs for producers and take advantage of growing international trade, Australian ports and freight supply chains will need to explore innovative solutions to eliminate congestion and disrupt the monopolistic structure of some existing supply chains. The ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust is well placed to capitalise on this.

4.3.1 Recent Australian Port Sales

Over the past nine years, a number of Australian ports have been privatised, including Port Botany, Port Kembla and the Port of Newcastle. The key metrics of the recent Australian port deals are outlined below.³⁷ Note that a number of these ports are large, diversified, containerised ports and hence should not be referenced for exact comparisons to what the Wallaroo Port can achieve – they are provided for general background only.

4.4 Why Wallaroo Port?

The Wallaroo Port is expected to disrupt the monopolistic supply chain³⁸ for grain exports in South Australia and initiate a paradigm shift in the traditional port model in the region by delivering a lower build and operating cost port to product, rather than bringing the product to a traditional higher build and operating cost deep-water port.

Viterra, a subsidiary of Glencore, owns and operates the vast majority of port terminal service providers (PTSP) in South Australia, with sites located in Port Lincoln, Wallaroo, Port Giles and Port Adelaide. In South Australia, port capacity utilisation declined in 2017-18, with Glencore's export market share decreasing from 42% in 2016-17 to 35% in 2017-18.³⁹

³⁸ Viterra exported the majority (91%) of bulk grain from SA in 2017-18 from its port facilities at Port Adelaide (inner), Port Adelaide (outer), Port Giles, Wallaroo, Port Lincoln, and Thevenard. A recent Australian Competition and Consumer Commission Bulk Wheat Ports Monitoring Report, examining the years 2017-18, noted that a number of stakeholders had commented on Viterra's dominant position, the limited competition at the port level and indicated that further infrastructure competition could be of benefit to growers in South Australia. Available at: https://www.accc.gov.au/system/files/1466_Bulk%20grain%20ports_FA.pdf.

³⁹ ACCC, 2017-18, Bulk Grain Ports Monitoring Report.

The ICAM ACIF Lucky Bay 2 Trust demonstrates key attributes that make it an attractive infrastructure investment. The Trust is expected to provide investors with:

- A combination of capital growth and stable distributions driven by stable revenue streams;
- Reduced volatility, through aligning interests of grain growers in the region with equity investment opportunities; and
- The opportunity for income distributions via the import/export of alternative commodities in addition to grain.

4.4.1 Forecast Grain Consumption

Australia's liberalised trade policies and island status offer significant potential for continued growth in port activity. In particular, Australia is well positioned to supply grain to meet the increasing demand from Asia.

South-East Asia has been the predominant purchaser of Australian wheat exports over the last decade. In 2017 these countries represented 60% of Australian wheat exports (up from 44% in 2006).⁴⁰ The largest market for Australian wheat exports is Indonesia, which imports 4.2m metric tonnes of wheat from Australia every year, equating to $1.2b of export revenue for the country.⁴¹

Global wheat consumption is expected to increase from 747Mt in 2018-19 to 782Mt in 2022-23, and consumption of coarse grains, such as corn and barley, are projected to increase from 1,400 Mt in 2018-19 to 1,541 Mt in 2022-23.⁴² It is anticipated that this growth in demand will continue to be driven by population growth in emerging regions such as Asia.

Consumption of wheat in South-East Asia is 26kg per person per year. In comparison, the world average per person wheat consumption is 78kg. Furthermore, consumption in this region has exhibited less price elasticity. Indeed, wheat consumption has shown continued growth even as the price of wheat is increased.⁴³ Grain demand, especially within emerging economies such as South-East Asia, is expected to outstrip supply and will continue to support a strong export market. South Australian grain production has averaged 8.3m tonnes over the previous five years,⁴⁴ with 6.9m tonnes produced in the 2017/18 season.⁴⁵

Asia is the dominant export destination for Australian grain, with exports to Asia having increased markedly over the past decade, combined with a decline in exports to the Middle East. In 2016, South-

East Asia, China and other North Asian countries accounted for approximately 75% of all Australian grain exports (this is up from circa 60% in 2006).⁴⁶

The North, Mid North and Yorke Peninsula grain catchment area around Wallaroo is a major grain producing region within South Australia and represents about 40% of the total state crop. Historically this catchment area has averaged 2.5m tonnes to 3.0m tonnes of grain annually.⁴⁷ We estimate the natural catchment area of Wallaroo to be circa 1.4m tonnes catchment subject to crop and season. The South Australian bulk grain export industry is currently a monopolistic system, with one operator dominating all the bulk grain ports in the state.⁴⁸ Grain growers are concerned that this market structure has been implemented to extract considerable premiums for grain handling.⁴⁹

4.4.2 Cost advantage

The development of the Port at Wallaroo is expected to provide an alternative choice for growers within the South Australian grain handling supply chain and provide grain growers in the region with significant cost benefits. Charges for grain storage and handling range from approximately $41 per tonne for early season delivery (November) to approximately $51 per tonne for late season delivery (March), with the difference largely a result of storage charges. Vessel owners are also charged additional port costs which include a Flinders Ports charge of $3.60 per tonne.⁵⁰ This cost is passed back through the supply chain to the grower. The development of grain exports through the new Wallaroo Port will provide grain growers in the Yorke Peninsula catchment zone near the Port with significant cost savings. The average cost of grain export from the new T-Ports operated Wallaroo Port is anticipated to be approximately $37.5 per tonne on average without any additional Port charge.

4.4.3 Efficiencies to Drive Value

The development of an additional grain supply chain will provide grain growers in the region with greater export options to sell their produce. This will change the way grain is priced and the fees and charges associated with grain exports. Furthermore, by innovating upon the traditional deep-water port model with smaller ports near the product, the Wallaroo Port development will assist in reducing congestion in freight routes. Hence the Wallaroo Port intends to increase the efficiency of South Australian ports and provide environmental benefits by reducing carbon emissions. The Wallaroo Port will use a state-of-the-art self-propelled, selfdischarging TSV to transport the grain from the Port to a larger deep-water Panamax or Supermax shipping vessel.

The TSV (Lucky Eyre) has been designed by Sea Transport who are considered a world leader in mini port transhipment vessels. This vessel design is unique as it only requires four metres of draft in the harbour terminal compared to 13 metres for a deep sea vessel. This provides significant advantages as it means the bulk grain is able to be loaded through shallow water ports located close to road and rail systems, further reducing supply side costs to growers. Moreover, the use of this shallow draft vessel eliminates the need for major jetty structures which are both financially and environmentally costly. The Lucky Eye will be used across port operations in both Lucky Bay and Wallaroo significantly increasing its capacity utilisation rate and reducing the operating costs of both projects.

4.4.4 Freehold Land

Port infrastructure in Australia typically operates on land under a long-term lease agreement and port operating license. All South Australian ports, with the exception of Whyalla and Lucky Bay, are owned and operated in this manner.⁵¹ The Trust will own the land that the Wallaroo Port is on and, therefore, has a unique freehold interest, avoiding any future lease renewal risks.

The Trustee may change the above fees and expenses charged to Investors by giving at least 30 days written notice to Investors, subject to any fee limits in the Trust Deed. The Trustee may agree with any Investor any fee arrangements with that Investor which are different to the fees set out above.

7.4 Goods and services tax

Unless otherwise stated, all fees quoted in the IM are quoted exclusive of GST.

7.5 Waiver, deferral or rebate of fees

The Trustee may, in its absolute discretion, accept lower fees and expenses than it is entitled to receive, or may defer payment of those fees and expenses for any time. If payment is deferred, then the fee will accrue until paid. In addition, the Investment Manager or Trustee may waive, negotiate or rebate their fees, for example, in the case of a large investment amount.

8. Risks

Like any investment, there are risks associated with investing in the Fund. There are a number of risk factors that could affect the performance of the Fund and the repayment of Investors' capital. Many risk factors fall outside of the Trustee and the Investment Manager's control and cannot be completely mitigated.

All investments involve varying degrees of risk. While there are many factors that may impact on the performance of any investment, the section below summarises some of the major risks that Investors should be aware of when investing in the Fund.

The following is a non-exhaustive list of the main risks associated with investment in the Fund. Investors should consider and weigh them up carefully and make their own assessment as to whether they are comfortable with them.

Some of the key risks identified by the Trustee are as follows:

8.1 Manager Risk

The Trustee and Investment Manager may elect to retire or may be replaced as the trustee or investment manager of the Fund or the services of key personnel of the Trustee and Investment Manager may become unavailable for any reason.

There is always a risk that the Trustee and Investment Manager may fail to identify and adequately manage the investment and management risks in the Fund's portfolio and thus affect the ability to pay distributions or reduce the value of the Units.

Operational risks of the Trustee and the Investment Manager include the possibility of systems failure, regulatory requirements, documentation risk, fraud, legal risk and other unforeseen circumstances.

The Fund is relying on the ability of the Trustee and its investment professionals to achieve the Fund's objectives. If the Trustee and/or its investment professionals do not continue in their respective roles, the Fund may not be able to achieve its objectives.

8.2 Legal, Regulatory and Compliance Risk

Changes in government legislation, regulation and policies generally could materially adversely affect the operating results of the Fund. Although unable to predict future policy changes, the Investment Manager intends to manage this risk by monitoring and reacting to any potential regulatory and policy changes.

The operation of a funds management business in Australia is subject to significant regulation by Australian government authorities including without limitation the ASIC, the Australian Transactions Reporting and Analysis Centre, the Foreign Investment Review Board and the Australian Consumer and Competition Commission. There is a risk that the Fund may not comply at all times with its various obligations under government regulations and this may result in the loss of authorisations of the AFSL held by the Trustee thereby preventing the continued operation of the Fund.

8.3 Income Risk

There is also a risk that investing in the Fund may give different results than investing individually because of income and capital gains accrued.

8.4 Diversification Risk

The application money raised under this Offer will be invested exclusively in a single investment. As such, your investment in the Fund will not be diversified by sector or number of investments (unless you hold another class of unit in the Fund).

8.5 Indirect investment risk

The offer under this IM is to subscribe for Wallaroo Infrastructure Units in the Fund. In turn, the Fund will utilise the capital raised from Investors subscribing under this IM to acquire units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust. Investors' return is therefore wholly dependent on the performance of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust and its investment in the Assets. The investment returns to investors holding Wallaroo Infrastructure Units can be directly affected by the operations and decisions of the management of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust, external to the Trustee's and Investment Manager's control. Investors do not have any power or control over the management of the investment of the Assets by the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

Risks associated with the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust are further disclosed in Sections 8.18, 8.19 and 8.20 of this IM.

8.6 Liquidity Risk

The Fund is an illiquid investment.

An investment in the Fund should be viewed as illiquid. There is currently no secondary market for Units and it is unlikely that any active secondary market will develop. There are substantial restrictions upon the transferability of Units under the Constitution and applicable securities laws.

You should only consider an investment in this Fund if you are not likely to require access to your investment for the Investment Term (noting that the Investment Term could be extended by the Trustee).

8.7 Tax Risk

Tax regulations can change and changes can be adverse. Investors should consider their own circumstances before investing.

8.8 General Investment Risks

The returns from investments in infrastructure financing are affected by a range of economic factors, including changes in interest rates, exchange rates, inflation, general share and property market conditions, government policy (including monetary and taxation policy and other laws), fluctuations in general market prices for property, shares, bonds and other tradeable investments and the general state of the domestic and world economies.

The value of Units can fall as well as rise due to circumstances affecting the economy generally, or to other factors which may affect the value of the properties in which the Fund may invest.

There may be increases in supply or falls in demand in any property market sector or geographic region. Therefore, there is no guarantee that the Fund will experience capital gains on the disposal of investments or those fluctuations in distributions will not occur.

8.9 Property Risk

There may be external influences from time-to-time, including unforeseen items of expenditure which have not been budgeted for and loss of revenue, which adversely affect the income of the Fund. These may result in a reduction of distributions and returns.

8.10 Operating History

The Fund has a short operating history upon which Investors may base an evaluation of its likely performance. The success of the Fund will depend on the Investment Manager's ability to carry out the proposed investment strategy successfully. There can be no assurance that the Fund's investments will achieve the targeted IRR.

8.11 Return of Capital

The return of capital and the realisation of gains, if any, generally will occur upon repayment of the investment. While it may be possible to sell the investment, it is not generally expected that this will occur and accordingly, Investors must be aware that there is unlikely to be any return of capital or payments on the investment for the Fund Term.

8.12 Fees and expenses

The Fund will incur fees and expenses regardless of whether it is profitable. For example, the Fund will pay management fees whether or not it makes any profits. In addition, the Fund will also be required to pay annual management fees whether it is fully invested or not. The Fund must therefore make sufficient profits from its investments to avoid depletion or exhaustion of its assets from these and other expenses. The Trustee and the Investment Manager expect to incur significant fees and expenses in seeking to source, evaluate, structure, negotiate, close, monitor and exit investments including, but not limited to, financial, legal, technical, regulatory, commercial advisers, engaged to assist the Trustee and the Investment Manager in seeking to source, evaluate, structure, negotiate, close, monitor and exit investments. There can be no assurance that the Fund will be successful in being able to recover these fees and expenses from successfully closed investments. These amounts may be significant and could have an adverse impact on the return that Investors might otherwise realise.

8.13 Currency Risk

The Fund's investments will be dominated in Australian dollars and therefore the weakening of a country's currency relative to the Australian dollar will negatively affect the value of the Fund's from the perspective of an international investor. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the level of short-term interest rates, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation, central bank policy, and political developments.

8.14 Thinly-Capitalised Management

The Investment Manager does not have any material independent financial resources. If an action or claim is brought against the Investment Manager and such claim is not covered by the professional indemnity or directors' and officers' insurance policies arranged by or on behalf of the Investment Manager, the Fund cannot assure that the Investment Manager will have sufficient financial resources to cover any amounts payable under any such claim.

8.15 Cyber Security Risk

Investors should be aware that while the Trustee has implemented technologies, processes, and practices designed to protect its networks, devices, programs, and data (or Information Technology Systems) such Information Technology Systems may still be subjected to malicious attack, damage, or unauthorized access.

Such Information Technology Systems may include the storage of information concerning an Investor's identity, financial interests or other personal details provided to the Trustee in connection with their investment in the Fund.

In the event serious harm is a likely outcome of a breach of the Trustee's Information Technology Systems, the Trustee or Investment Manager (as may be required) will notify the affected individuals and recommend steps that ought to be taken in response to the breach. The Trustee may also be required to notify any regulatory authority as required by law.

8.16 Other Risks

It is important to note that not all risks can be foreseen. It is therefore not possible for the Trustee or the Investment Manager to protect the value of the Fund's investment from all risks. Investors should ensure they obtain appropriate professional advice regarding the suitability of an investment in the Fund having regard to their individual circumstances, including investment objectives, their level of borrowings, their financial situation and individual needs.

Neither the Trustee nor Investment Manager guarantees the repayment of capital or the performance of the Fund.

8.17 Conflicts of Interest Risks

The Trustee and its directors may develop advisory and other relationships with a wide variety of clients and investors. As a result of obligations that arise from those relationships, including obligations of confidentiality, certain potentially suitable investment opportunities of which the Trustee becomes aware may not be offered or disclosed to the Fund.

Various funds managed by Australia China Investment Fund Pty Ltd may invest in funds managed by ICAM Duxton No 1 Pty Ltd and ICAM ACIF No 2 Pty Ltd. James Forbes is a director of Australia China Investment Fund Pty Ltd, ICAM Duxton No 1 Pty Ltd and ICAM ACIF No 2 Pty Ltd.

The information in Sections 8.18, 8.19 and 8.20 has been extracted from the information memorandum in relation to the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust dated 10 May 2019. Any reference to Trustee in these sections means the trustee of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust and any reference to trust means the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust. Further details in relation to the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust are available from that trust's information memorandum or the trustee of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

8.18 Port Enterprise Investment Risk

8.18.1 Design and Construction Risk

The Project is a greenfields port project. Accordingly, the infrastructure is yet to commence construction. There are inherent risks in any development project. Performance of an investment in the Trust is dependent on asset development in line with projected timetables and on budget. Increased costs or time delays can impact on return on investment, including through a delay in commencement of operations, higher capital costs or debt funding or reduced revenue. In addition, T-Ports will be undertaking the Port development management on behalf of the Trust. Accordingly, investors are exposed to the performance capabilities of T-Ports development management offering.

8.18.2 Port Operator Risk

The Wallaroo Port Facility will be operated by T-Ports. If the port operator is ineffective then there will be impacts on revenue, operating expenses and return on investment.

While port operations could be outsourced to established grain port operators as an alternative, this is likely to increase the cost base of the operations beyond the figures modelled and may also have other impacts on grain seller and purchaser dynamics, which again could negatively impact the returns.

8.18.3 Port Operations Risks

There are a range of potential risks that can impact any port operation, including:

- Loss or damage to assets, handling equipment or property;
- Loss or damage to vessels or cargo;
- Wreck removal costs;

- Pollution risks;
- Non-damage events such as strikes, denial of access or transportation incidents;
- Damage that incapacitates critical cargo handling equipment;
- Damage to sea walls, piers and wharves from natural hazards or vessel impact; and
- Terrorism and natural catastrophes.

8.18.4 Competition Risk

Existing ports supplying services to growers may respond to the emergence of this new port operation by reducing their fees, which may impact on the amount of grain throughput and hence negatively impact returns by reducing revenue. The impact of this risk will depend on the degree of fee discounting that occurs.

8.18.5 Patronage Risk

Patronage risk is the risk that usage of the Assets will not be at the levels anticipated. The Port and supply chain throughput are dependent on the amount of grain produced in the regions and on the extent of engagement with the growers. If the grain throughput forecast is not reached (for instance, due to weather events reducing the yield produced by the grain growers), revenue of the Trust may be lower than expected and hence impact the return on investment.

8.18.6 Weather, Climate and Agricultural Risk

The grain produced in the Yorke Peninsula is in turn dependent on weather and other agricultural risks. Production levels can vary significantly from year to year, especially in drought years. Modelling has included consideration of average yields but if there are significant adverse weather or agronomic events (disease, pest, loss of crops) then this will negatively impact revenue and returns. Climate change may increase the level of extreme weather events and increase the costs of Port maintenance, all of which may negatively impact revenue and returns. In addition, adverse weather conditions can negatively impact on the operational availability of the port and the TSV. While the TSV is designed to operate in conditions beyond the capacity of a normal shallow draft transhipper there are sea state conditions in which it cannot operate.

8.18.7 Counterparty Risk

The Trust's operations and profitability are dependent on a number of parties. If one of the Trust's counterparties defaults or cannot meet their obligations under their specific arrangements with the Trust, the Wallaroo Port's revenue – and hence profitability – may be impacted. For example, this includes the risk of non-performance by construction companies, grain growers, fertiliser suppliers and purchasers, ship operators, the Port operator, suppliers, equipment providers and other service providers in addition to the Trustee.

8.18.8 Technology Risk

The Trust includes a transhipment vessel which will load the grain from the Port and deliver it to large deep-water shipping vessels. Whilst this technology has been used for the loading and discharging of other export materials, it has not been used for grain before. This grain loading/discharging technology is integral to the operations of the Port. If the technology does not operate as expected, the Port's future use may be impacted.

8.18.9 Regulatory Risk

Under the Competition and Consumer (Industry Code – Port Terminal Access (Bulk Wheat)) Regulation 2014 (Cth), port terminal operators are required, among others, to:

- Negotiate in good faith with wheat exporters for access to port terminal services;
- Not discriminate or hinder access in the provision of port terminal services;
- Offer the ability for wheat exporters to seek mediation or binding arbitration on terms of access in the event of a dispute; and
- Publish approval for port loading protocols for managing demand for port terminal services.

In summary, the Code regulates bulk wheat port terminal operators to ensure that exporters have fair and transparent access to terminal facilities. As such, any changes to this regulation may impact the profitability of the Trust. There are also compliance costs associated with satisfying these regulatory requirements.

Further, the Maritime Services (Access) Act 2000 (SA) permits the State Government to impose additional economic regulation and other controls on proclaimed ports. If this port becomes subject to that regime then there may be higher compliance costs or other impacts on revenues. The Port also needs to maintain other relevant regulatory approvals in order to conduct its operations, including under the Harbors and Navigation Act 1993 (SA) requirements for port operating agreements.

In addition, there are many other standard regulatory regimes that will impact on the development of the port infrastructure and its operations. These include the Development Act 1993 (SA), planning approval requirements as well as obligations associated with Environment Protection Authority requirements, Landscaping and Vegetation Management Plans, and Traffic Management Plans, chemical handling and storage for grain fumigation, controls on chemical use on grains (including Food Standards Australia and New Zealand and the Agricultural Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority), security controls under the Customs Act 1901 (Cth), export controls and other matters. Failure to obtain relevant approvals or comply with conditions of approval of operations, whether at a Commonwealth, State or Local Government level could negatively impact on costs, revenues and returns. There is no guarantee that the Trust will receive all approvals required to develop and operate the Port on terms, or in the time frames, anticipated. Any such changes or failures may result in decreased returns to investors.

8.18.10 Native Title Risk

The Assets are within the boundaries of a Native Title Claim under the Native Title Act 1993 (Cth) (NTA). If there was non-compliance with relevant agreements or obligations, then this would negatively impact on the development, developer reputation and returns.

8.18.11 Revaluation Risk

The future value of the Assets is subject to a range of risks. There is no guarantee that the Assets will increase in value as projected and achieve a capital gain upon sale.

8.19 Trust Risk

These risks relate to an investment in the Trust.

8.19.1 Debt Financing Risk

The Trust has not yet received debt financing commitments. The ability or cost to secure debt finance depends on a range of factors including the global economic conditions and Australian and international debt markets. Accordingly, Investors should consider the risks associated with such debt raising including an inability to raise the full amount required, a delay in obtaining debt finance, the costs of debt being higher than anticipated or the terms of the debt being less favourable than anticipated. Additionally, there is always a risk that the Trust may default on the terms of its debt, leading to a risk of enforcement (and potentially asset recovery) by the debt provider.

The Trust will be working very closely with potential debt providers to obtain the debt on reasonable terms, and once obtained, ensure the debt is prudently managed. Each of these matters may affect the ability of the Trust to meet its targeted returns set out in the Information Memorandum and to have the Project developed within the timelines anticipated in this Information Memorandum.

8.19.2 Liquidity Risk

An investment in the Trust is illiquid. It should be viewed as a long-term investment. An investor may only transfer their Units to another person with the Trustee's consent. However, there is no known secondary market for Units in the Trust and no market is expected to develop in the future. There will be no withdrawal rights from the Trust.

As noted, the Trustee intends to seek an exit event for investors within five to seven years. An exit may involve an initial public offering and listing; a potential sale to an institutional infrastructure fund, superannuation fund or similar entity; or a refinancing of equity through a capital raising and redemption offer. The timing and form of an exit will depend on a number of factors outside the Trustee's control, including market specific and general economic conditions. Investors should consider an investment in the Trust as illiquid. Direct infrastructure investments are by their nature illiquid investments. It may be difficult for the Trustee to dispose of the Assets in a timely manner and at an optimal sale price.

8.19.3 Concentration risk

Investors have the flexibility to design their portfolio of investments as they see fit. However, investors should be aware of the risk of concentrating on similar or correlated assets. Concentration risk means that, should a particular asset class be adversely impacted, other highly correlated asset classes run a greater risk that they will also be affected.

8.19.4 IDPIT Call Option Risk

IDPIT holds a market priced call option over the Trust's assets. Whilst this option cannot be exercised prior to the end of the Port's first year of operations (unless in conjunction with a sale of IDPIT's assets), there is a risk that it will be exercised at a time that is prior to an optimal exit time for the Trust investors. This may affect investors' returns.

8.20 General Risks

8.20.1 General investment risk

An investment in the Trust is subject to general investment risk which can negatively impact the return to investors and the value of capital invested. The Trustee does not guarantee the performance of the Trust or the return of capital. The performance of any individual investments in general may be affected by many factors, including:

- Consumer and business confidence;
- Inflation;
- Interest Rates;
- Taxation;
- Changes in law; and
- Government Policy.

The demand for port infrastructure by supply chain stakeholders and any purchaser may be affected by general economic conditions.

8.20.2 Financial Forecasts Risk

This Information Memorandum contains some forward-looking statements and prospective financial forecasts. These are estimates and are based on a number of assumptions. While such forward-looking information is based on the best estimates and reasonable assumptions of the Trustee, the Trustee makes no guarantee that such events will occur, and potential investors should understand that the actual financial performance of the Trust may be different from that forecast to occur in this Information Memorandum.

8.20.3 Insurance Risk

While the Trustee remains confident of arranging proper insurance cover for the risks associated with ownership of the Assets, there is no certainty that such insurance will cover, or will be adequate to cover, the consequences of adverse events.

8.20.4 Legal and Regulatory Risk

Changes in law (including tax and stamp duty law), or changes in the interpretation of existing laws, regulations or government policy could have an impact on the Trust's performance.

We strongly recommend that Investors obtain independent financial advice before investing in the Fund.

9. Taxation Information

Investors should seek their own taxation advice in relation to the taxation of income and capital returns from the Fund.

9.1 Tax File Number and Australian Business Number (Australian Investors Only)

It is not compulsory for an Investor to quote a Tax File Number (TFN), claim a valid exemption for providing a TFN, or (in certain circumstances) provide an Australian Business Number (ABN). However, if an Investor does not provide a TFN, exemption or ABN, tax will be required to be deducted from the Investor's distributions at the highest marginal tax rate plus Medicare levy and any other applicable Government charges (currently 49%).

9.2 Australian GST

GST should not be payable on the issue or redemption of units nor on any of the distributions to Unitholders. GST may apply to the fees charged to the Fund by the Investment Manager and in relation to other expenses of the Fund. The Fund may be entitled to claim input tax credits and / or reduced input tax credits for any GST paid

9.3 Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act

In compliance with the United States (US) income tax laws commonly referred to as the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act ('FATCA') and the Intergovernmental Agreement signed between the US and Australian Governments in April 2014 in relation to FATCA, the Fund will be required to provide information to the ATO in relation to Investors that are: (a) US citizens or residents; (b) entities controlled by US persons; and (c) financial institutions that do not comply with FATCA.

Where Investors do not provide appropriate information to the Fund, the Fund will also be required to report those accounts to the ATO.

9.4 Common Reporting Standards (CRS)

CRS is the standard set by the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) for the automatic exchange of information with revenue authorities for tax non-residents that invest in certain financial accounts. The standard covers both the identification of tax non-residents and reporting on the applicable financial accounts. The Trustee may be required to comply with its CRS obligations under any relevant Australian laws and regulations, including obtaining and disclosing information about certain investors to the ATO or other foreign tax authorities as required. To facilitate these disclosures, Investors will be required to provide certain information such as that relating to their country of tax residence and their relevant taxpayer identification number (if applicable).

9.5 Withholding Tax

Investors under this IM who are non-residents will be subject to withholding tax on the income distributions payable to them from the Fund.

ACIF Priority Fund
Wallaroo Infrastructure Unit Class

This withholding tax is paid by the Fund on behalf of members of the Fund and is deducted prior to distributions being paid. The amount of withholding tax payable will be determined by the composition of income distributions received from by the Fund from its investments.

Investors in existing classes of units in the Fund who are non-residents currently pay withholding tax at the rate applicable to interest income.

Depending upon the composition of the income received from the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust, the Fund may be required to pay a higher rate of withholding tax than at present. Where withholding tax applies, the maximum rate of withholding on payments from the Fund could be up to 30%. Should this occur, the Trustee will have discretion under the terms of issue for the Infrastructure Performance Units to adjust the income returns of Investors in order to ensure that existing members of the Fund are not disadvantaged.

10. Additional Information

10.1 Summary of material documents

The following is a summary of material documents relevant to the Fund. The material documents are:

- Constitution and terms of issue of Wallaroo Infrastructure Units
- Investment Management Agreement
- Administration Agreement
- Information memorandum and trust deed of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust

You should consider whether it is necessary to obtain independent advice on any of the documents.

Constitution and terms of Wallaroo Infrastructure Units

The Constitution is the primary document that governs the way the Fund operates and sets out many of the rights, liabilities and responsibilities of both the Trustee and Investors.

Each Unit gives you an equal and undivided interest in the assets referable to the Unit Class in which those Units are issued.

Subject to the Constitution and the terms of issue of the Wallaroo Infrastructure Units, as an Investor you have the following rights:

- The right to share in any distributions.
- The right to attend and vote at meetings of Investors.
- The right to participate in the proceeds of winding up of the Fund.
- The Constitution contains provisions about convening and conducting meetings of Investors.

The Trustee can amend the Constitution without Investors' approval provided it reasonably considers the change will not materially affect Investors' rights.

The Constitution can also be amended by a special resolution passed by Investors.

A copy of the Constitution is available free of charge by contacting the Trustee on: +61 3 8352 7120.

The terms of issue of the Infrastructure Performance Units set out additional rights for Investors.

Every Wallaroo Infrastructure Unit confers an equal and undivided interest in the units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust held by the Trustee as a whole. They do not confer an interest in other assets of the Fund.

All expenses attributable to the Infrastructure Performance Units will be paid out of the distributions from the units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust. Likewise, for the purpose of the Constitution, distributable income for Infrastructure Performance Units will be paid out of distributions from the units in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

Investment Management Agreement

The Investment Management Agreement is between the Investment Manager and the Trustee under which the Investment Manager provides investment management services to the Fund.

The Investment Management Agreement sets out the Investment Manager's obligations to the Trustee and to the Fund. The agreement also contains the arrangements in relation to the Fees and Costs that are summarised in Section 7.

The Investment Management Agreement will remain in force until the Fund is wound up, unless the agreement is terminated earlier in accordance with its provisions. The agreement can be terminated by the Trustee if the Investment Manager is in material breach of the agreement, and that breach has not been remedied after a certain time. There are also provisions allowing the Trustee to terminate if, for example, the Investment Manager becomes insolvent.

The Investment Manager is permitted to terminate the agreement in certain circumstances, such as if the Trustee ceases to be the trustee for the Fund.

Administration Agreement

The Administration Agreement is between the Administration Manager and the Trustee under which the Administration Manager provides fund administration and accounting services to the Fund.

The Fund Administration Agreement sets out the Administration Manager's obligations to the Trustee and to the Fund. The agreement also contains the fees payable to the Administration Manager for its services.

Information Memorandum and trust deed of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust

The ICAM Lucky Bay Trust constitution is the primary document that governs the way the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust operates and sets out many of the rights, liabilities and responsibilities of both the trustee of the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust and the Trustee as investor in the ICAM Lucky Bay Trust.

10.2 Related party transactions

The Investment Manager is not a related party of the Trustee. The contractual arrangements between the Trustee and the Investment Manager are negotiated at arm's length between the parties. The Trustee may from time-to-time enter into transactions with related entities. For example, the Administration Manager is a related party of the Trustee.

Various funds managed by Australia China Investment Fund Pty Ltd may invest in funds managed by ICAM Duxton No 1 Pty Ltd and ICAM ACIF No 2 Pty Ltd. James Forbes is a director of both Australia China Investment Fund Pty Ltd, ICAM Duxton No 1 Pty Ltd and ICAM ACIF No 2 Pty Ltd.

It is not the responsibility of the Trustee to assess the merits of each investment recommended by the Investment Manager, but rather to review that each investment is contemplated by this IM and the Constitution. Accordingly, the Trustee does not guarantee that such transactions will be entered into on arm's length terms.

10.3 Privacy

In applying to invest, you are providing the Trustee and the Investment Manager with certain personal details (your name, address etc.). The Trustee uses this information to establish and manage that investment for you.

Under the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth), you can access personal information about you held by the Trustee, except in limited circumstances. Please let the Trustee know if you think the information is inaccurate, incomplete or out of date. You can also tell the Trustee at any time not to pass on your personal information by advising it in writing.

If you do not provide the Trustee with your contact details and other information, then it may not be able to process your application to invest.

Under various laws and regulatory requirements, the Trustee may have to pass-on certain information to other organisations, such as the Australian Tax Office or the Australian Transaction Reports and Analysis Centre (AUSTRAC).

By applying to invest, you give the Trustee permission to pass information it holds about you to other companies which are involved in helping it administer the Fund, or where they require it for the purposes of compliance with the Anti-Money Laundering and Counter Terrorism Financing Act 2006 ("AML/CTF Law") or in connection with the holding of application money. The Trustee may also use your information to provide you with details of future investment offers made by it or the Investment Manager.

10.4 Complaints handling

Applicants and Investors who wish to make a complaint about the Fund should contact the Trustee by telephone on (03) 8352 7120, by email to info@vascofm.com, or in writing addressed to:

The Complaints Officer
Vasco Trustees Limited
Level 5, 488 Bourke Street
Melbourne VIC 3000

The Trustee will acknowledge a complaint as soon as practicable after receiving it and will notify the complainant of its decision, remedies and other information within 45 days of the complaint being made.

As the Fund is an unregistered managed investment scheme, complainants do not have recourse to the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA).

10.5 Anti-money laundering law

The Trustee is required to comply with the AML/CTF Law. This means that the Trustee will require potential Investors to provide personal information and documentation in relation to their identity when they invest in the Fund. The Trustee may need to obtain additional information and documentation from Investors to process applications or subsequent transactions or at other times during the period of the investment.

The Trustee may need to identify:

- (a) an Investor prior to purchasing Units. The Trustee will not issue Units until all relevant information has been received and an Investor's identity has been satisfactorily verified; and
- (b) anyone acting on behalf of an Investor, including a power of attorney.

In some circumstances, the Trustee may need to re-verify this information.

By applying to invest in the Fund, Investors also acknowledge that the Trustee may decide to delay or refuse any request or transaction, including by suspending the issue or withdrawal of units in the Fund, if it is concerned that the request or transaction may breach any obligation of, or cause the Trustee to commit or participate in an offence under, any AML/CTF Law, and the Trustee will incur no liability to Investors if it does so.

10.6 Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA)

FATCA is United States (US) tax legislation that enables the US Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to identify and collect tax from US residents that invest in assets through non-US entities. If you are a US resident for tax purposes, you should note that the Fund is or is expected to be a 'Foreign Financial Institution' under FATCA and it intends to comply with its FATCA obligations, as determined by either the FATCA regulations or any inter-governmental agreement (IGA) entered into by Australia and the US for the purposes of implementing FATCA. Under these obligations, the Fund will have to obtain and disclose information about certain Investors to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO). In order for the Fund to comply with its obligations, we will also request that you provide certain information about yourself, including your US Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN). We will only use such information for this purpose from the date the Fund is required to do so.
